

Saving a “Fillable PDF” file

There are several ways and programs that allow the data entered into a “fillable PDF” to be saved, including Adobe if you have that program. Here is a simple way using “Chrome” which many user have on their computers.

Download and save a copy of the SEA-PAC QSO Party results form to your computer. To open the file, instead of selecting “open”, select “open with”, then choose “chrome” to open the file.

Once the blank results file is opened this way, type in your SEA-PAC QSO Party results. Under the “print” TAB, select the “change button”, then “save as PDF”. Select a destination and file name, such as your documents file and perhaps your callsign as the name.

This process will save your entry information so you can attach it to an email to report your results. You could also print a copy and scan the page if you don’t have chrome. An attached photo of the completed page is also a possibility.
